

SHOCKING DEATH BY FIRE

MRS. JANE S. TOPPER FOUND IN FLAMES BY DAUGHTER.

It is Supposed in Striking a Match a Spark Set Fire to Her Clothing.

This town was startled on last Wednesday evening with the shocking news of a horrible burning accident. Mrs. Jane S. Topper, who had been living with her daughter, Mrs. Pius Breighner, on West High street, was the victim of the distressing accident. Mrs. Topper had eaten her supper and gone to her room on second floor, while Mr. and Mrs. Breighner and other members of their family were on the first floor. Hearing calls for help Mrs. Breighner rushed up stairs to her mother's room and found her mother in flames. She caught up a blanket and threw it around her mother, and succeeded in extinguishing the flames.

Mrs. Topper was fond of a smoke but had been warned of the danger. It is thought she had been sitting on a chair when she struck the match, a half burnt match being found on the floor. A spark from the match it is thought, fell in her lap, starting the flames. The aged lady then arose to put out the fire but must have become confused, as she was found sitting on the side of the bed and her clothing on the left side of the body from the lap up fiercely burning.

Drs. J. R. Dickson and W. H. O'Neal were quickly summoned and did all in their power to relieve the aged woman's suffering. Her body had a number of burns upon it and one side of the face. At first it was thought she was not fatally burnt, being conscious and recognizing those about her. The internal injuries were serious and Mrs. Topper sank away, dying about Thursday noon.

Mrs. Topper was the widow of Gregory Topper and her married life was spent in Liberty township. Her maiden name was Cromer, being a sister of the late Henry Cromer of Cumberland township. Her age was 84 years, 8 months and 29 days.

The funeral was held on Saturday morning. Rev. Father T. J. Crotty conducting the services in St. Francis Xavier church. The body was then taken to Emmitsburg and interred by the side of her husband in the cemetery adjoining the Catholic church of that place. She leaves five sons and two daughters. Wm. H. Topper, of near Emmitsburg; Ezra Topper, of Littlestown; Samuel Topper of near Biglerville; David Topper, of York; John Topper, of Emmitsburg; Mrs. Krise of Bittinger and Mrs. Breighner.

Mrs. Elizabeth Rice, widow of Michael Rice, of Arendtsville, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Harmon, at Carlisle, June 18, aged 86 years. Five weeks before she fell and broke her hip, which is believed to have hastened the end. She resided at Arendtsville for many years and was a member of the Lutheran church of that place. The body was taken to Arendtsville for interment. She leaves two children, Mrs. Harmon, of Carlisle and Clayton Rice of Arendtsville. Two brothers and sisters also survive, George Schlosser of Weavertown, Amos Schlosser, Miss Sallie Schlosser and Mrs. Susan Bushey of Bendersville.

Mrs. Leah Ellen Weigle, widow of George Weigle, died on June 13 at her home in Tyrone township from epileptic convulsions aged about 38 years. Interment was at Upper Meridian church. Rev. Wm. L. Leisher conducting services.

Mrs. Isabella Sell, wife of Andrew Sell, died at her home near Sell's Station, Adams county, on last Friday aged 81 years. Death was due to infirmities. Mrs. Sell's husband met death twenty years ago at the raising of George Unger's barn in Union township. The funeral was held on Monday morning, services at Christ Church, Rev. F. S. Lindaman officiating with interment in cemetery adjoining the church. She is survived by four children, two sons and two daughters. They are Samuel of Kentland, Ind., and David, living at home; Mrs. John A. Simpson of near Christ Church and Miss Alveta at home. She is also survived by a step-son, Hiram Sell of Canton, Ohio.

Rev. John W. Rue, D. D., a Methodist minister, died in Waynesboro on Saturday night after an illness of seven weeks, from cerebral hemorrhage. He was specially noted for his evangelistic work and in twenty-six years he did not miss a Sunday in the pulpit. He was born in Virginia and entered the ministry in 1875. He served fifteen churches, and was frequently here during the pastorate of his brother Rev. V. T. Rue, helping the latter. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon in Waynesboro and body will be taken this afternoon Wednesday, to Lewisburg where he will be buried. He leaves a widow and six children.

Accidents.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Stough and two small children of Berwick township, were driving home from Abbottstown on the pike when an automobile approached. The horse frightened and made a dash around the machine and overturned the buggy throwing the occupants to the ground. All escaped injury except Mrs. Stough, who had collar bone broken.

John Devine of Edgegrove was painfully bruised by a kick from a horse in his stable. The hoof struck Mr. Devine in the right thigh but fortunately the horse was not shod and wound was not as serious as it might have been. Dr. A. C. Rice is in attendance.

David Hill and James Hospelhorn who, under the supervision of John Horner, are tearing down the old wooden bridge over Flat Run on the Gettysburg road to Emmitsburg, near latter place, made a narrow escape last week from a serious accident. The outside trimming of the bridge having been removed the men were engaged in tearing down the sides when the bridge collapsed. James Hospelhorn was at work on the extreme top at the time of the accident and fell to the floor of the bridge where Mr. Horner was standing. The one end of the bridge was wrecked and is now in the creek. When the keystone was removed the girder broke under the weight of the bridge and caused the accident. Fortunately no one was injured.—Emmitsburg Chronicle.

Captain Gilbert Complimented.

The "Public Opinion" of Chambersburg in issue of last Friday in noting the fact in an editorial that there are no Chinese Wallis about Chambersburg and that that town has grown in every direction during the past forty years, pays the following well deserved compliment to Captain Calvin Gilbert of this place.

"With the transfer of the Taylor Works from Westminster to Chambersburg in the early '80's, came the demand for homes for the workmen. The old Agricultural Society which contributed the ground for the new works, set about to lay off the remainder of the fair grounds into building lots. These were quickly disposed of, and in a year or two that section of the town was built up and new streets ordained. It was the first building boom for the town and was inaugurated by Captain Gilbert.

Then came the Wolf & Hamaker Works from Allentown in which Captain Gilbert was again a leading spirit. The way that section of the town improved was amazing."

Captain Gilbert has always been active in promoting the best interests of Gettysburg, where he has lived for the past 20 years and that his former home place now recognizes the value of his services in advancing its interests is very gratifying.

Foot Crushed on Railroad.

Howard Menchey, a Western Maryland flagman, living in Hanover and running on freight from Gettysburg to Baltimore met with an ugly accident in this place on last Friday evening, resulting in his left foot being badly crushed.

Mr. Menchey was assisting in the making up of his train and was in the act of jumping upon a car when he slipped, one of the wheels of the car passing over the side of his left foot crushing it.

He was carried to the office of Dr. H. M. Hartman, physician for W. M. R. R. here and he found the side of foot with little toe badly mashed and rest of foot badly lacerated. The foot was temporarily dressed and injured man sent to his home in Hanover, where Dr. J. H. Bittinger took charge of the case.

THE Ladies' Bible Class of the Reformed Sunday School will hold an ice cream festival at the residence of Miss Emma Faber, Chambersburg St., Friday evening, June 29, beginning at 6 o'clock.

Post Office to be Enlarged.

Several months ago the Post Office authorities looked over the field here for sites for Post Office and bids were invited respectively from S. A. Hammond for the present location and from John M. Warner for the building corner of Baltimore and Middle streets. It is said that the department has decided to accept the bid of Mr. Hammond.

A number of changes will be made to the present office. An addition will be built to the present rear wing, adding 18 more feet of room. The office room will then be divided into apartments. There will be a private office for Postmaster Wm. B. Mellheny and it will not be fitted up with phonographs to record stray political whippers and orders. Then there will be a waiting room for the city and rural carriers where they can jolly each other when not otherwise engaged. There will be an apartment for the rural carriers and altogether it is expected to have things much more convenient than at present.

A Railroad Crossing Accident.

What might have been a very serious accident occurred on last Saturday afternoon at the railroad crossing on West Middle street. The Western Maryland railroad was using the track at the time in the shifting of cars. A Mrs. Nary and her daughter from near Orttanna were driving into town and had not observed the shifting train and were very close to the track when train crossed the street. The horse frightened, made a sharp turn to the side and upset the conveyance, throwing the two ladies to the ground. When they were assisted to their feet it was found they had not been injured beyond some bruises. The horse in his fright jumped over the bar wire fence along the road and received some ugly snags but was believed not to be seriously hurt. The shafts to the conveyance were broken. Mr. Kelly of the coal firm of Kelly & Oyler got shafts and fixed up vehicle and horse was caught and hitched up and ladies were able to drive home in the evening.

Charity Legacy Paid.

The "Reformed Church Messenger" of recent date notes the fact that some years ago Mrs. Georgietta C. Peightel, wife of Rev. J. N. Peightel of Green-castle gave the Board of Missions a note for $1,000 to establish the Rev. Isaac N. Peightel Church Building Fund and the Georgietta C. Peightel Church Building Fund, payable one year after her death, without interest. It further notes that by the kindness of her executors, who are Edward M. Crouse of Littlestown and Hugh C. Hinkle of Philadelphia, that this money has already been paid long before due, which was much appreciated by the Board. Miss Peightel was a Miss Crouse of Littlestown.

COURT HOUSE ADDITION

BIDS FOR BUILDING WERE OPENED LAST THURSDAY.

Merville E. Stallsmith Was the Lowest Bidder and Will Be Contractor.

County Commissioners John C. Group, A. H. Rebert and John F. Bushey met at the Commissioner's Office at noon on last Thursday to open the bids for the proposed addition to the Court House. Bids had been advertised for during the past month, but only four bids were handed in.

The bid of Felix Foller of Gettysburg was $17,555.

H. J. Gullen & Son, of Bendersville bid $16,852.62.

W. H. Johns of this place bid $16,855.

Merville E. Stallsmith presented the lowest bid of $14,336.

The bids were somewhat in excess of the rough estimate of the architect. They had given the Commissioners no detailed estimate of what the cost should be but in a general way gave as an outside figure $12,000.

The contract was not awarded on Thursday as the commissioners desired to know the entire cost of the undertaking before going ahead. There were no bids in hand from the plumbers for the heating and plumbing, so the closing of contract was postponed until the plumbing bids were handed in. The plumbers were directed to hand in their bids on June 26. Yesterday these bids were opened and everything is included in the bids now presented except the vault furnishings.

The contract calls for a bond from the contractor for seventy-five percent of the contract price to complete contract according to specifications. Mr. Stallsmith's bid being $2519 lower than the next highest bid he will receive the contract when he presents satisfactory bond.

York Gets the President.

Straws show which way, you know according to the old saying. Congressman Lafean has succeeded in getting President Roosevelt to visit York on October 4. The President will be the guest of Mr. Lafean and will spend part of the day at the York Fair. The President will be escorted to the Fair Grounds by a troop of United States Cavalry from Fort Myer, Va., which will be detailed to act as a protection for the President. The State Sunday School Convention at this place has asked President Roosevelt to come here second week in October. It is hardly possible that the President would be able to go to York on Oct. 4, to Harrisburg the same week and Gettysburg the following week. As between York county farmers at the Fair and Sunday School workers from all over the state with few voting in the district, of course Lafean knows the difference, specially this year when the race for congress is on. Besides has he not said he can be elected without a vote from Adams County.

A Long Auto Trip.

William Wales, accompanied by his wife, two children and mother-in-law passed through Gettysburg on Sunday in a 50-horse power Pope-Toledo auto. He was enroute from Fort Meyer, Florida, to Hartford, Conn. The party has been on the road for the past five weeks and machine was covered with mud when it went through town. As it passed along a citizen remarked that he had his whole family including the grandmother. He went on to York and between this place and York had an exciting adventure with a bull. The auto struck the bull and broke one of auto's horns, if it would be no reflection on the headlights to call them by that name. From York party went to Philadelphia, then on to New York.

Hearing was fixed for August 25.

An order was granted to sell the real estate assigned by A. Lewis Hoffman to G. W. Koser for his creditors, consisting of a 93 acre farm in Tyrone township, 123 acre farm in Huntington township, residence and warehouse in Biglerville.

Upon petition of Directors of Poor setting out that Hannah C. Deardorff was an inmate of State Lunatic Hospital at Harrisburg and that her husband, who had been her trustee had died, J. L. Williams, Esq., was appointed committee of said lunatic. Bond in sum of $4,000 was approved.

A. Erter had presented a petition setting out that a $4,000 judgment given his deceased wife had no consideration and asked that executors satisfy same. The executors replied that the contention of A. Erter was correct and asked that rule to satisfy judgment be made absolute. Four of the five children gave their consent to this. The wife of a deceased child got permission to intervene and will seek to recover her share on proposition that as between Mr. Erter and his deceased wife lack of consideration would be no defense and that he can be held to note given wife. The matter will be concluded when answer of son's wife has been filed and passed upon.

The widow's list under $300 law in estate of Obediah Jacobs, late of Huntington township, taking all in personality was approved.

Prisoner Eyler.

William Eyler, waiting trial for murder, is getting more accustomed to his quarters in jail. He is being kept under close watch by Sheriff Geo. L. Colestock. He is confined in the granite cell. The other prisoners are given the freedom of the jail yard but this is denied Eyler for good reasons. After the outside doors are locked in the evening Eyler is allowed to be in the corridor, or if upon any occasion the doors to yard are closed he will be permitted in the corridor. He talks a little more than at first. His first inquiries of his fellow prisoners was wondering what they would do with him. He talks a little more freely with the other prisoners. He sleeps well and has a wonderful appetite, eating often it is said as much as three men would eat. He gives the Sheriff little or no trouble. He has asked to be allowed in corridor several times and he wanted to know whether his people would be allowed to furnish him with things to eat. The Sheriff wisely cut out this thing of carrying all kinds of things to a prisoner charged with a capital offense by saying that relatives could only leave money with which extras would be bought for prisoner. Friday is visiting day at jail and on first Friday after Eyler was there 77 visitors were admitted to jail and on last Friday there were a large number of visitors.

ON the lawn opposite the Mansion Hotel, Fairfield, the Catholic Church of that place will give a festival on Friday and Saturday evenings, June 29 and 30. A clam sup will be served on Friday evening.

CROSS COW ATTACKS WOMAN

BRUISED ON BODY AND HEAD WITH CRUMPLED HORN.

Seven Foot Blacksnake Killed—Distinguished Visitors at Big Flat.

Buchanan Valley, June 21.—Last Thursday Mrs. George Irwin went to the barn to put a small calf in the stable, when the cow attacked her and when Mrs. Irwin would move to get away from her it would horn at her again. When the dog came up, the cow attacked it, and Mrs. Irwin succeeded in getting out of her reach. She was bruised in four places, head, breast, leg and back and is at present unable to move owing to the soreness. She made a very narrow escape from being killed by the cow, her horns were crumpled, if they had been straight she would have been lacerated worse and perhaps killed. Dr. W. E. Holland, was summoned from Fayetteville and gave the necessary attention to the wounds and bruises.

Some time ago Edward Shultz and George Shepherd found in a tree a large black snake which was 7 feet long. They had quite a battle with it before they had it killed. They were cutting wood for A. W. Cole at the time.

Your correspondent had the pleasure of meeting Major Isaac Brown, Secretary of Internal Affairs and wife of Harrisburg at John Irwin's on last Monday afternoon, also Col. Meredith and wife of Calidonia. The party had driven to the "Big Flat" and upon returning took supper at the hospitable home of John Irwin. The Major and wife have travelled over the noted parts of our United States and are very entertaining and were quite pleased with our valley and the "Big Flat," in the Piney Mountains.

Samuel Keiser and Joseph Steinberber both have had kitchens added to their houses.

The old Keiser house was torn down last week.

Edward J. Cole killed a large rattler, beside a pile of bark while working on the Orner place, it measured 3-1-2 feet, the men had passed and repassed the place where it lay, when at last it rattled and they were aware of its presence.

James Kuhn of near Hilltown sold quite a lot of fine cherries in the valley.

Strawberries are brought to the valley from near Arendtsville and sold quite reasonably.

We had cool weather since the rain on Saturday, almost cold enough for frost.

DISFIGURING SKIN HUMOR

Impossible to Get Employment, as Face and Body Were Covered With Itching Sores—Scratched Till Flesh Was Raw—Spent Hundreds of Dollars on Doctors and Hospitals and Grew Worse

CURED BY CUTICURA IN FIVE WEEKS

"Since the year 1894 I have been troubled with a very bad case of eczema which I have spent hundreds of dollars trying to cure, and I went to the hospital, but they failed to cure me and it was getting worse all the time. Five weeks ago my wife bought a box of Cuticura Ointment and one cake of Cuticura Soap, and I am pleased to say that I am now completely cured and well."

"It was impossible for me to get employment, as my face, head, and body were covered with it. The eczema first appeared on the top of my head, and it had worked all the way around down the back of my neck and around to my throat, down my body and around the hips. It itched so I would be obliged to scratch it, and the flesh was raw."

"I would first wash the affected parts with warm water and Cuticura Soap, and then apply Cuticura Ointment and let it remain on all night, and in the morning I would use Cuticura Soap. I am now all well, which all my friends can testify to, and I will be pleased to recommend the Cuticura Remedies to any and all persons who wish a speedy and permanent cure of skin diseases." Starboard and Port.
Why do the sailors call the right hand side of the ship "starboard" and the left hand "port"? For the answer it is necessary to go back to the days of the Norsemen and Saxons. In the viking ships the warriors hung the "bords," or shields, on the side of the ship above the places for their oars. The viking himself held the steer oar, which was fastened to the right hand side of the stern. Thus the right hand side of the ship became known as the steer side, and as the bords of the warriors were hung there it was called the "steerbord," or starboard side, while the lower, or lurking side, became the larboard. Bord eventually became corrupted into port.

AS TO CAMPAIGN EXPENSES

ACCOUNT MUST BE KEPT AND FILED OF EVERY PENNY SPENT

Every Candidate, Successful or Otherwise Must Keep and File Such Account of Expenses.

The campaign for county offices in Adams County can not be said to have begun. Dates for county conventions have not been fixed. A little political talk is heard now and then. Before the campaign season opens, every candidate successful or otherwise in securing a nomination and whether a Democrat or Republican should know the law of the land under which he makes his campaign for nomination and should observe that law with strictness. No citizen of the county has ever been a candidate for a nomination to whom the law applies, for the provisions of the corrupt practice act only go into force this year and only apply to the primaries and election of this year and afterwards.

Every candidate, successful or otherwise must keep an account of every cent spent in the campaign.

These accounts must be filed with the clerk of the courts 30 days after the primaries. Failure to do this disqualifies any successful candidate from being sworn into office and places all violators subject to a fine of not less than $50 and not more than $1000 or imprisonment for not less than one month or more than two years, either or both at the discretion of the court. Such accounts must be filed by all candidates, both at elections and primaries.

The candidates must give an account of the receipts, contributions, etc., giving date from whom received, and the amount of expenditures, disbursements, etc. giving date paid, to whom paid or promised and the amount of unpaid debts and obligations, giving when incurred, to whom due, purpose and amount.

The act is very explicit, setting forth in detail all provisions. It covers all candidates, at either elections, primaries, caucus or convention. Its original intent was that of regulating nomination and election purposes. It requires not only individual candidates but the treasurer of all political committees to render similar accounts on oath.

No candidate or treasurer of any political committee, either directly or indirectly shall pay, give, lend or agree to give or lend, any money or other valuable thing for nomination or election expenses, except for the following purposes.

Printing and traveling expenses, personal expenses incident thereto, stationery, advertising, postage, expressage, freight, telegraph, telephone and public messenger services.

For dissemination of information to the public.

For political meetings, demonstrations and conventions and for the pay and transportation of speakers.

For rent, maintenance and furnishing of offices.

For the payment of clerks, typewriters, stenographers, janitors and messengers, actually employed.

For the employment of watchers at primary meetings and elections to the number allowed by law.

For the transportation of voters to and from the polls.

For legal expenses, bona fide incurred in connection with any nomination or election.

Should any successful candidate fail to file this statement it would be unlawful for anyone to administer the oath of office to him and even should the oath be administered and the candidate enter upon the duties of his office, he could receive no salary for the time he served up until the time the account had been properly filed. The accounts when filed are open to public inspection and must be preserved for at least two years. Within

THE WEAK SPOT.

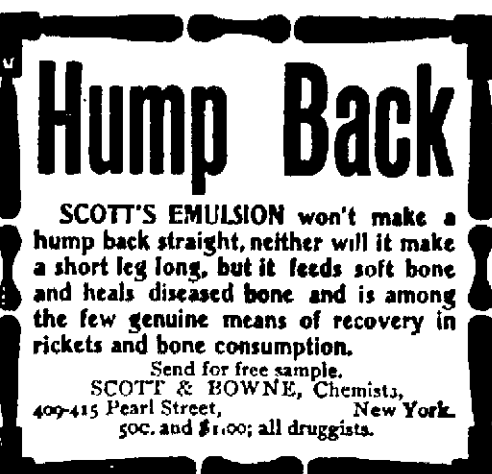

When a boiler explodes, carrying death and destruction with it, every body says "Why? we thought it was strong enough. It must have had a weak spot somewhere." When a man who has the outward appearance of being sound and strong suddenly falls a prey to disease, his friends exclaim: "Why? we thought he was all right—he must have had a weak spot somewhere."

The fact is, almost everybody has a weak spot somewhere. Death and disease are always looking for weak spots. If your stomach or your liver won't do its proper work, if your body fails to get its full nourishment from the food you eat, and your brain loses part of the sleep it ought to have, no matter how big your frame and muscular your limbs may be, you will give out; disease will find the weak spot, and nature will give way.

Three years ago this spring I was attacked with severe dyspepsia. I was in a bad way. I was treated by five different doctors, but kept getting worse until I was afraid to go to the table to eat, as the least little thing I ate distressed me so I could hardly stand it. After suffering for nearly a year and falling off in weight from 135 pounds to 100 pounds, I commenced taking Golden Medical Discovery. Before I had taken all of one bottle I began to feel relief, but kept on until I had taken eight bottles, and now I am as well as ever, can eat anything I want, and I feel like a new man. I was surprised to notice such a quick change in me after seeing me suffer so long. Several said they never expected to see me get well. I have not had to take any medicine for stomach trouble since. I cannot say enough in praise of your "Golden Medical Discovery."

This glorious "Discovery" gives the stomach and liver power to do their natural work properly and completely. It makes healthy blood and sends it everywhere. It helps the weak spots, making them sound and strong.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Golden Medical Discovery" whenever a laxative is required.

SOME BLACK BASS STORIES

THE SEASON OF BASS FISHING BEGAN JUNE 15.

The Strength of the Black Bass is Marvelous and Gives Exciting Sport.

The season of black bass fishing began on June 15 and already fishermen are swapping tales of small catches. There are said to be some bass in Rock Creek. There are more in Marsh and Conowago creeks. The Potomac and Susquehanna rivers are not too far away for an occasional indulgence in this sport and there are those who assert that there is no finer sport in North America to offer the fisherman than fighting the small mouthed black bass.

From the fair, light green little chaps of half a pound, up to the mud-colored black, battle scarred veteran of eight pounds, these fish are all full of fight just so long as they retain their tenacious hold upon life.

The following stories of black bass fishing in some of the smaller lakes in this country illustrate the fine sport of black bass fishing:

A couple of lads who were returning from a successful day's sport let down their string of half a hundred fish for a washing before their boat reached shore. As their last fish had been caught twenty minutes previously, they were justified in thinking there was not a great deal of animation in the bunch. However, a couple of three-quarter pound fish at once concluded to make a further struggle for life, and made off with the whole catch towing behind. The floating mass was sighted next morning, and after a chase taken up by the boat livemeymen. The two runaways were lively and vigorous and lived for some days in the boatmen's fish box, until they were wanted by one of the hotels.

Just by way of experiment a fisherman once sat in the bow of a four oared skiff holding a steel rod to which a four or five pound bass had made fast and allowed the creature to do what it would. For the whole of the June afternoon the boat was never still. The powerful fish, with the hook in his lower jaw, towed it around and about, and varied his performances by occasionally coming to the surface and indulging in series of acrobatic leaps. After five hours of this work the man forced the fighting, and brought his prey to the side. No sooner however, was the strain relaxed than the hook slipped out of the elongated hole in its jaw, and the bass jumped gayly out of the net, and was lost after all.

In the clear spring water of mountain lakes the vigor of the well-nourished, handsome fish almost passes belief. Their muscular build and great surface make them superior to the members of the salmon family in swimming power, and their dashing, splashing habit of fighting is very unlike the dignified, steady strain and graceful leaping of the salmon.

It is decidedly unfair, however, to catch them in the native way, with trolling hand lines, or heavy bait rods, for the bass seems made to be hooked and played on something which will bring about an approximation to equal terms between him and the angler.

If properly tried for the bass will rise to the artificial flies in the early part of the season. No doubt it is true that the water may be covered with real flies upon which not a sign can be discovered of a bass making an attack. It must be understood that he is not always fond of dry flies, but prefers that they be submerged and move with fair speed.

Just now the outfit required is a light six or eight ounce rod, a good sized reel, a hundred and fifty feet of a light oiled silk line, a strong leader and a brace of flies, one on a large, the other on a small hook. There is nothing better in some waters than a silver doctor and a tiny yellow May or coachman.

The angler should keep out about a hundred feet of line and have the boat pass slowly thirty feet from shore or backward and forward, over and along a bar, as any shoal is here called. This will keep the flies down some five inches below the surface.

As a rule the fish takes the flies with a rush, and should be struck smartly. If it is a large bass he makes a flutter upon the water and then dives, swimming heavily and rapidly. They often travel in pairs, and when one has been hooked the other will frantically endeavor to follow suit and catch on also. Or a larger one sees a small bass struggling with something to eat and, rushing up to investigate, seizes the spare fly and finds himself hooked for his pains.

When both fish have been struck, they do not as a rule, act singly. On the contrary, until they come to the surface to display their jumping powers, they will pull, dive, and turn together in such perfect unison that the angler will in many cases not know that he is playing a pair.

One day a fisherman spent a busy three-quarters of an hour fighting a team of two five pounders, which were only brought to net with the greatest difficulty.

On another occasion, when a woman enthusiast had with great patience, skill and strength played a seven pounder almost to a standstill, a second big fellow snatched at the other fly. Instantly the first one revived, and both fish started off quickly. The reel was not quite speedy enough, and the eager angler toppled heels over head into thirty feet of water. She pluckily held on to her rod, however, and being able to float was actually being towed off when picked up.

The two fish were fought after that for a whole hour, and were then manoeuvred into shallow water, near a sandy beach, and literally kicked ashore by the oarsman.

Two men pulled their birch bark to shore at lunch time at a certain lake, and went for a rest under the shade of a beech tree nearby without noticing that one of the leaders was trailing in the water. They were remarking upon the shrill call of what they thought was a tree toad, when one sprang up with the exclamation:

"It sounds very like the click of my reel!"

They rushed down to the bank just in time to see the light canoe slip off where it had been lightly grounded and sail away quite steadily. Without waiting to strip, one of the two jumped in and, getting to the front of the runaway craft, pushed it toward the shore. The strain of the fish, which had taken the fly left in the water, was, however, great enough to drag the rod out of the boat, and the swimmer had quite enough of it to get back, with the canoe before him and one hand grasping the rod, at the other end of which was a six or seven pound bass.

Which reminds one of an accident along the St. Lawrence when a thoughtless father tied a salmon leader and a fly to a stiff striped bass rod and, attaching a fly, allowed his little six-year-old boy to amuse himself with it. A big bass snatched at the fly and tugged so hard that the little fellow was pulled in.

A DAY ON THE BATTLEFIELD

As Described by a Lady Living in Port Angeles, Washington.

Mrs. Melissa Ramsey, coming from the Pacific coast, Port Angeles, Washington, spent a day at Gettysburg recently and thus writes of her experience of the day.

I arrived in your town Saturday morning, June 9th, at 10:20 a. m. I at once took a carriage for the Battlefield, accompanied by six guests from the Pitzer House and Mr. Cleveland Cooper, the well known guide and lecturer.

We first passed the old stone house used by the commanding General, Robert E. Lee, of the Confederate army as his headquarters, then through Reynolds' Grove, where the brave General Reynolds fell mortally wounded on July 1, 1863. We then came to John Burns' monument. Here we all had our pictures taken in a group. After driving a short distance we came to Gen. Reynolds' statue where we stopped for some time and listened to our guide's fine description of the movements of both armies as they participated in the opening of the battle on July 1, 1863. We then passed on to Oak Ridge and Barlow's Knoll. Here our guide made a deep impression upon my mind in regard to the bravery of a noble and energetic woman, Mrs. Gen. Barlow.

We returned to the Pitzer House where we appeased our appetites. After dinner we took the carriage again and followed the Confederate line to the Peach Orchard. From there we went to the bloody Wheatfield, where the brave heroes fell by the thousands. We then went to Devil's Den. Here we had our pictures taken again, standing among the massive boulders which concealed the Confederate sharpshooters from the Union soldiers on the Round Tops. Then we went up on Little Round Top and had the picture of the group taken again as we stood beside Gen. Warren's statue. It was he who saved the key to the Union position. From here we had quite a drive to the High Water Mark and the Bloody Angle, where our guide explained very clearly Pickett's brilliant charge. We then passed on to Mather's Headquarters and from there to the National Cemetery where I strewed flowers on some of the graves of the brave heroes whose bodies lie moulding in the sod, awaiting the morning of the resurrection day. From the Cemetery we went over Culp's Hill to the spring from which both armies secured water during the battle. From here we returned to the station and I left for Baltimore at 3:45 p. m., having spent one of the most delightful days of my life on the Battlefield of Gettysburg.

I am very much interested in the military movements which helped to make the history of our country. My husband belonged to the 6th and 7th Vermont Infantry. He was wounded five times in battle, the marks disfiguring his body very much.

BRONZE DOORS OF CAPITAL

Disfigured With Brazen Heads of Bosses of the Machine.

The doors of the main entrance to the new capital at Harrisburg were uncovered for the first time last week. They are considered the finest bronze doors in the United States in point of workmanship. The swinging part on the right door contains three panels, one representing the signing of the Constitution of the United States, a second "Education," and the third "Agriculture." The door on the left contains panels representing the signing of the Declaration of Independence, "History," and "Mining."

Surrounding the panels are eighteen heads and the state and nation have been shocked to learn that the individual responsible for these heads had so little sense for the propriety and decency of things as to make these heads easily recognizable in the likeness of certain individuals, some of whom the state has no reason to be proud.

These bronze heads stand out on the border and are about as large as a man's fist, yet they are perfect in every detail. The bronze head of Quay is a most remarkable likeness. There are heads of Senator Penrose and Governor Pennypacker; Mr. Lewis, the assistant to Joseph M. Huston the architect of the new capitol, to be followed later by a head of Mr. Huston himself, George Gray Barnard the sculptor, who will make the statue for the new capitol; Senator Clark, the Montana copper king, at whose works in New York the doors were made; E. F. Aueaigne and Superintendent Merritt, of the Bonnard Bronze Company, the makers of the doors, and others whose pictures cannot at present be recognized.

There are also on the doors the heads of former Governor William A. Stone, Superintendent of Public Instruction Schaeffer and Robert K. Young, attorney for the new capitol commission. In fact all of the heads of the members of the new capitol commission may be there, but the ones mentioned are easily recognized.

Just what prompted the designer to put Quay's head on the door, and by what queer freak he placed Penrose's head there, will probably never be known, but those who saw them when they were uncovered for the first time, were astonished at the revelation. The designer had perched eye glasses on the Governor's nose, but they will probably not remain there very long, as some vandal will nip them off with a pair of pinchers, something that can easily be done, as the eyeglasses are held lightly.

The disgust of the people over these bronze heads will probably result in the removal of them from the doors, if not by the commission by order of a legislature at a later date.

PENNSYLVANIA BIBLE CONFERENCE AT EAGLES MERE.

The State Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association of Pennsylvania has completed all arrangements for the Annual Bible Conference which meets July 3 to 13 at Eagles Mere, the charming mountain resort with a lake affording bathing and boating, more attractive to many than the seashore.

Never before has there been such an attractive corps of instructors engaged including such well known men as Rev. James M. Gray, D. D., of the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, and Rev. R. A. Torrey, D. D. who has been so successful in his world-wide evangelistic work; S. D. Gordon of Cleveland, author of the remarkable "Quiet Talk" series of books; Rev. Luther T. Townsend, D. D. the noted author and teacher from Boston University, and Rev. John Urquhart, D. D. of Scotland, one of the greatest preachers and expositors in Europe.

The conference, while under the direction of the State Young Men's Christian Association, is open to any men or women who desire to attend. Information concerning registration and special railroad and hotel rates can be found in a beautifully illustrated booklet published by the State Y. M. C. A., Harrisburg, which will be mailed upon request.

An attractive feature of this ten days' outing is the arrangement for recreation, each afternoon being given over entirely to athletics, bathing, boating, fishing and rambling under the direction of a committee of the Conference.

AN OLD MAN'S TRIBUTE.

An Ohio Fruit Raiser, 78 Years Old, Cured of a Terrible Case After Ten Years of Suffering.

When suffering daily torture from backache, rheumatic pain, Any ill of kidneys or bladder, Turn to Doan's Kidney Pills. A cure endorsed by thousands. Read an old man's tribute.

Sidney Justus, fruit dealer, of Mentor, Ohio, says: "I was cured by Doan's Kidney Pills of a severe case of kidney trouble of eight or ten years' standing. I suffered the most severe backache and other pains in the region of the kidneys. These were especially severe when stooping to lift anything, and often I could hardly straighten my back. The aching was bad in the daytime, but just as bad at night, and I was always lame in the morning. I was bothered with rheumatic pains and dropsical swelling of the feet. The urinary passages were painful, and the secretions were discolored and so free that often I had to rise at night. I felt tired all day. Half a box served to relieve me, and three boxes effected a permanent cure."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Justus will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, 50 cents per box.

FOURTH OF JULY ACCIDENTS

Prompt Medical Attendance to Prevent Danger of Lock Jaw.

Just previous to Fourth of July last year State Health Commissioner Samuel G. Dixon through the public press of Pennsylvania called the attention of the people to the great danger of lock jaw (tetanus) from wounds of toy pistols and other explosives, and he urged the necessity of immediate medical attendance in such cases. That the warning was widely heeded was shown by the great reduction in the number of tetanus cases following Fourth of July accidents. Indeed there were reported only a few scattered cases throughout the whole state. Health Commissioner Dixon again sends out a warning message in anticipation of the coming Fourth.

"The germ which produces tetanus grows best buried in the flesh away from the air," says Dr. Dixon, "and this germ which is found in earth, in the dust and in horse stables, and sometimes suspended in the air in windy localities, lodges easily in the small, clean cut wound made for instance by the blank cartridge.

"What I wish to impress upon every one, especially mothers, is the very great seriousness of these wounds if they are not promptly and properly treated by those with full knowledge of the subject. Early treatment by a physician will often prevent the development of tetanus. Therefore, a doctor should be called at once to treat a penetrating wound even if slight, such as powder or other explosives are apt to make. In case of prolonged delay in obtaining the services of a physician a competent druggist or trained nurse might thoroughly wash the wound and apply hot antiseptics."

$300,000 Insurance Issued.

The Gettysburg Mutual Fire Insurance Company in the past two weeks has been issuing the first series of policies to be placed by the new Company. Between two and three hundred policies have been issued. The charter of the Company only became effective when there was $250,000 of insurance to be written. This amount was in sight some weeks ago and has been piling up over and above that sum, so that the amount now in force is about $300,000. The Secretary, Wm. E. Kapp has been kept busy during the rainy days of June in preparing the policies. The new company takes its place to give insurance along the lines of the Adams County Mutual and opens business with a remarkably successful line of policies.

Year $1.50

Gettysburg, Pa., Wednesday, Jun 27 1906

Oh yes, the town has a sprinkler, but in that month which is usually warm and dusty it has been enjoying a period of idleness, for in June there has been a March covering of mud on the streets.

STERLING GALT has taken charge of the Emmitsburg "Chronicle" as editor and proprietor and has begun to develop it into a live local paper filling columns with local news and greatly improving the paper.

With the advent of warm weather all kinds of things begin to grow, even schemes to do people and according to report a variety of these schemes are being tried on farmers and other citizens. Now is the time to be too busy for the stranger with a game to work.

JESSE JAMER, son of Jesse James, the famous outlaw, was admitted as an attorney at the Kansas City Bar last week. This event gives those who do not love the legal profession the chance to remark "same old holdup business in law instead of out law."

THE latest for women is the cachepeigne. It must be cinnamon color and mingle well with the little chi chi curls, which posticheurs take to fill the hiatus back of the hat beneath the cachepeigne. Have you a cachepeigne and if not, why not? And don't forget the chi chi curls.

CONGRESS did the wrong thing last week in adopting a lock canal for the Panama canal in place of a lockless sea level canal. The "Straits of Panama" are wanted, opened for business in the shortest possible time and not a lock canal that an earthquake would put out of business.

MR. BRYAN interviewed abroad does not declare himself as a candidate for President in 1908. It is too far off. He hit the nail on the head as to issue of next campaign in saying, "The next election will decide whether America is to swallow the trusts, or the trusts are to swallow America."

THE forty-sixth star in the flag will be added this year for the state of Oklahoma, taking in both that territory and the Indian territory. Old Glory will not be complete until the fate of New Mexico and Arizona have been determined. Congress proposes to have the people of these territories vote on question whether they shall be one state and add but a single star to flag.

Now that the ordinance against spitting is in force, the effort of the male sex ought not to be to see which one will have to pay the $1 fine first. For the sake of the home and the home-makers and to keep this town at a top notch in civic virtues, it surely is not expecting too much that when spitting is done, to take a step or two to the gutter. The town ought to be placarded on the subject.

THE candidates for the nomination to the various offices before the recent State Convention have been filling their bills of costs, running from over $17,000 to nothing. Tom Nelson of Chambersburg said his expenses for nomination for auditor general that he didn't get, were $264.65, of this $24 went for car fare, $19.50 for cigars and entertainment, $7 for headquarters and balance for printing, etc.

MARYLAND has under way a movement to elect United States Senators by the people. But Maryland has two great brainy senators. Poor Pennsylvania, loaded up with an excuse of a Penrose, dare not be trusted with an election of senators by the people. With Emory as Governor and Penrue de-throned there is yet hope for the Keystone State.

THE Town Fathers have been prodding the citizens about their pavements. It is always a good thing to begin at home before going after your neighbor for omissions. That is, how about rough pavements. Well for the last ten days the borough pavement in front of Hotel Gettysburg was a series of puddles with very little margin between. Some other borough pavements on Diamond are little better. The borough ought to set the example with good pavements.

CONGRESS decided last week to give the President the small sum of $25,000 a year for traveling expenses. Instead of the railroads furnishing the gratuity of a free Presidential circus train as happened in the days of past, the people will now pay the bill as the circus goes around, even though the people send a president to Washington for the discharge of duties at that point. However, if he doesn't spend his traveling money he doesn't get it.

CHARGED WITH BAD FAITH

CITIZENS LED TO SPEND THEIR MONEY AND THEN REPUDIATED

All Work on Sewer Called off and Citizens Consigned to Their Open Ditches.

The Town Council met in special session on Monday evening June 25, having been called together for the purpose of considering sewer matters. President Gilbert called meeting to order stating object of same and those present were Councilmen Culp, Wiernman, Becker, Hammond, Beck, Wisotzkey and Tawney.

The citizens present were first asked to explain their wants and then to retire.

Mrs. J. O. Blocher and James A. Kepner were present and through their council stated they were present because of discontinuance of work on sewer, on Hay street from Springs Avenue to Middle street. That when work began on that short branch they had begun work on sewers from their respective properties to reach same.

That J. A. Kepner had opened up a ditch on his own and Mrs. Blocher's land of over 500 feet and had already laid sewer pipes of over 200 feet. That Mrs. Blocher had put down about 20 feet of sewer on her place and was ready to go rest of distance 180 feet to make connection. That Mrs. Blocher had taken out a permit to enter the sewer and that Kepner and Blocher sewer would join before connecting.

It was represented that they had already spent large sums of money in the work already done, to make connection the permit authorized, and were prepared to spend more money to complete same. That they had been told in good faith to go ahead and asked of the council good faith and justice.

Edward Staley and J. A. Good stated that when sewer had begun on Hay Street they had gone to members of Council asking that sewer be continued out West Middle street to give their properties the conveniences of the same instead of being located on Hay street where they could not reach it.

J. L. Butt, Esq., Wm. B. McIlhenny and Merville E. Zinn were present and Mr. Butt speaking for the three said they desired the borough to provide a sewer on railroad street or elsewhere to carry away the waste from the ice plant they were establishing in the old knife factory opposite the Reading railroad depot. That there was going to be a certain amount of waste from plant which it might be well should not be carried off in surface ways. It also developed that the large bottling works to be erected near the ice plant would need sewerage and it was thought that best drainage would be out to sewer on Washington street. Council adjourned however without giving the request of citizens interested in plant any consideration.

After the citizens had been heard and retired there were lively times ending in council resolving to break faith with those who had spent their money and to do nothing farther on sewer work. Councilmen took turns at knocking.

Councilmen Tawney first wanted to know how contract with Fehr and O'Rourke had been closed about keeping streets in order and was informed that sewer contractor had agreed to donate 150 perches of stone for purposes of borough. This had not been put in writing but it was said there were several witnesses to prove it.

Councilman Hammond knocked because Sewer Committee had been spending money without orders and was replied to by Councilman Wisotzkey that Sewer Committee had put down sewers authorized by Council and only spent money for authorized work.

Councilman Wiernman knocked because the hands on Sewer job didn't work as they should and he was in favor of getting a new set of hands. He said he had said to some of the hands "you don't seem to be working much" and replied had been given him "don't have to," and President Gilbert asked him why as a member of the Sewer Committee he had not discharged such hands on the spot.

Councilman Beck said all Councilmen had got what they wanted but him-self and he was not going to vote for any more sewers unless he got one on West Street.

Into this general discussion was finally drawn the sewer begun on Hay street from Springs Avenue to Middle street. President Gilbert said matter had been brought up at May meeting, then again at June meeting and at latter meeting he had stated Sewer Committee would build it if a survey showed that line could be put down. That no one had objected to what he had said and he understood that Council was satisfied to have it done. That when the boss of the work asked where he was to go next, he mentioned to him Hay street sewer, if things were not ready elsewhere. That he afterwards found them at work there.

One Councilman after another took turns jumping upon Pres't Gilbert for building it as they said without orders making the mistake, and that the way to have built was out Middle street. He replied that he had gone ahead in good faith, that when he had stated in meeting the intention to go ahead there had been no objection, that to have gone out Middle street would have benefited eleven or more jobs he owned, but to lay the short distance on Hay street did not touch an inch of his land and was the cheapest thing to be done and would cost about $2.00.

Finally a motion was offered to discontinue the sewer on Hay street and close up ditch and carried.

To expressions that they were sorry Mr. Kepner and Mrs. Blocher had spent their money they were told that sorry was not the word and didn't put back into their pockets the money they had spent in good faith that they were to have sewer accommodations.

A motion then followed that Sewer Committee be instructed to build sewer on Middle street from man hole to foot of hill and was lost by vote of three to four.

President Gilbert then asked for instructions as to sewer from Lincoln street alley to Broadway and it developed that Sewer Committee was opposed to going ahead with this, which would about finish their authorized work.

A motion that sewer work be stopped and hands discharged as soon as present work is done of making connection on Carlisle street and for Gettysburg Hotel connection. This motion carried without a dissenting voice.

Other discussions seemed to be pending and a motion to adjourn was put and carried.

The Sewer Committee made the following report of work done by them since the completion of the work by contractor, April 15, 1906.

They have relaid and finished parts of new lines as follows:

In alley rear of Chambersburg St., from Baltimore to Washington Sts., about 550 ft
North Washington St., 450 ft
South Stratton St., 225 ft
Baltimore from High to Breckinridge 600 ft
Alley rear of O'Neals 100 ft

A total of about 1925 ft
Also have made connections for First Ward Sewer on Stratton street and have put in 2 man holes and 4 lamp holes. The cost of this work for labor and material has been $1170.08

The amount paid Fehr & O'Rourke for work as per contract was $2459.78

Amount yet due 15 per ct. $308.95

Paid for First Ward Sewer 2000.00

Amount paid for Engineer and rights of way 1584.58

Making the total cost of sewer to this date $3168.34

There is a bill in the hands of the Sewer Committee from Fehr & O'Rourke amounting to $531.35 claimed for extras which the Committee refuse to allow, and will be adjusted through the engineer.

The amount of cash in bank to the credit of the sewer fund is $4281.19. In addition to this amount there are two bonds of $500 each unsold and which are payable Oct. 1, 1905. The provision for payment of the bonds due Oct. 1, 1906, has been made by the assessment for special tax for 1906.

CALVIN GILBERT, E. P. WISOTZKEY, N. L. WIERNMAN.

The stormy meeting illustrated that public service is often a thankless job. There may have been others willing enough to have done the work but the fact is that in 1905 two councilmen more than the rest gave up their time, days upon days, to the sewer work without remuneration and to their individual loss. They made it their business to see that things were done right, and objected if they were not so done, endeavoring to have the borough get the value of the money spent. These two men were Allen B. Plank and Calvin Gilbert and they deserve to be so recognized by this community. In 1906 Mr. Gilbert has been doing this work that other councilmen could have interested themselves in. If council chooses to recognize this public service, done without remuneration, with knocking, it ought to be recognized by the community in its true light.

How to Save Money.

In these times when living expenses have increased from thirty to fifty per cent., it is unusual to hear of a standard remedy being offered at half price. Yet that is the way L. M. Buehler the popular druggist is selling Dr. Howard's celebrated specific for the cure of dyspepsia and constipation. In addition to selling a fifty cent bottle, containing a month's treatment of sixty doses, for 25 cents, he gives his personal guarantee with every bottle he sells to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.

This unusual offer has brought hundreds of customers to his store in the last few weeks, yet out of the many bottles of Dr. Howard's specific he has sold, but one customer has asked to have the money returned. This was done without any questions, although L. M. Buehler does not think the remedy could have been given a fair trial.

Doctor's bills can be saved by the use of Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of dyspepsia and constipation, and by taking advantage of this special half price introductory offer, our readers can save half the regular price of the specific.

Fire at Fairfield Station.

The house occupied by Mrs. Emma Allison and owned by Mrs. Margaret Muselman was burned to the ground Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in spite of the quick and good work of the railroad employees and neighbors. All the household goods were saved, and after a hard fight the homes of Frank Felix and John McSherry were saved. The origin of the fire is a mystery, with small insurance.

Fire Alarm.

At half past three o'clock yesterday morning, about the hardest time to awaken a town, there was a fire alarm and the bell rang and rang until a crowd large enough gathered to take out engine, hook and ladder and hose reels.

The fire was in the last one of four three story houses on the last square of Chambersburg street. William Criswell occupies the house and had gone to bed on the third story and there was a tin lamp standing on a chest near the bed. The lamp in some way was knocked over setting fire to some clothing on floor and the room was well smoked. The family and neighbors got the fire out with water and by throwing some of the clothing out. When the firemen arrived with the chemicals one pair of pants was found burning to which they turned their attention. It was daylight when the fire apparatus was turned into engine house.

Cleaning Reservoir.

The Water Co. got progressive and began to clean the reservoir on Monday. It is true the COMPILER has for the past several years been making gentle hints along that line. The citizens whose service was close to the reservoir have been complaining of a strong rain barrel smell. When the water plug in front of D. A. Conover's place was opened on Monday morning there was about 15 feet of water in reservoir. There were two or more feet there when we went to press.

A quantity of marine weed has been taken out as water went down. It has been left out slowly so that all sediment would settle and be able to be removed. There are a number of bass in reservoir and some big one. The reservoir will be cleaned and refilled with filtered water from plant, water declared to be absolutely pure, and Gettysburg will then be in the best shape for the summer.

State S. S. Convention.

At a meeting of the pastors and Sunday School superintendents of the town on Monday evening June 25—who are formed into a general committee to further the project of the State S. S. Convention to be held here in October, and which promises to be one of the greatest events in point of numbers that Gettysburg has seen for many days—the chairmen of the necessary sub-committees were appointed.

The State organizations require less money than most societies that come here in convention meetings, but certain expenses must be born by the local committees, while some entertainment would be a gracious act on the part of our citizens and it is hoped that when the finance committee calls upon our citizens they will be liberal in their subscriptions so as to embarrass them as little as possible.

From a business standpoint we have every reason to believe that there will be many thousands of people here for several days, and we all know what that means.

"The MATTRESS of the present and the future."

OSTERMOOR

EVERY other mattress in the world is stuffed—hair, cotton or feathers— jammed in at the open end of a tick. That's why lumps and holes soon cause sleepless nights. Each OSTERMOOR is built—not stuffed. Handmade sheets of downy softness, each full size, are carefully built within the tick. It is vermin proof. An occasional sun-bath is all it requires. The tick can be taken off and washed when soiled.

BIRD AND BEAST.

Battle Between a Hawk and a Big Black Dog Mink.

Silent as an owl in the black of night, the hawk glided low on whist wings across the little open space cleared by the fallen maple, paused an almost imperceptible instant above the unlistening squirrel, and then, wings closed, dropped upon him with unerring talons. But for some strange reason the harrier seemed powerless to bear away his kill; while his angry, frightened screams drowned out the dying squeak of the squirrel, he strove with great rattling wing strokes to get purchase on the air, but could not. Over and over again he struck downward with his beak, apparently at the squirrel, though of this, because of the blur of his whipping wings, I could not be sure. In a moment he half toppled forward, and then, like a huge broken whirled partridge, he flopped about among the tangled coils of roots, uttering meanwhile shrill screech on screech that seemed fairly to lacerate his throat. In but little more than it takes to tell it a dozen kingbirds had gathered, and were buzzing round the struggling harrier like gaddies round a horse, adding their spiteful cries to his harsh din; now a crow appeared out of nowhere and searched deep in his throat for his hoarsest cry; blue jays dashed across the clearing and back again in a frenzy of clamorous excitement; a swarm of chattering blackbirds rushed into the tree above me till its branches sagged and creaked like those of a laboring tree over-weighted with fruit—all in an instant bedlam was let loose round that old wind wrecked maple.

Under cover of the uproar I crept nearer and saw that a big black dog mink, his bulldog jaws clamped on the upper leg of the harrier, was grimly fighting to pull him down from behind, while the harrier, with the speed of terror and hate, sought desperately to reach his assailant with his beak. It looked as if the mink must win, for the harrier was perceptibly weakening in his vain counter attack; but a sudden lift with the harrier's long wings half tore the mink from his hold and swung him for one brief moment within distance of that rending beak. Rip; a big red gash gaped open on the mink's writhing flank, and he let go and tumbled back among the roots. Up leaped the hawk, his pearly white breast streaked and blotched with blood from his wounded leg. Like magic the cries of all but the kingbirds were hushed, while, still screaming with rage and hurt, the hawk rose heavily skyward and marked his course athwart the wind for the shelter of the woods.—Harold S. Deming in Harper's Magazine.

Persian Dramatics.

A traveler, speaking of some of the oddities of Persian customs when viewed with occidental eyes, said: "Depending as we do upon illusion and scenic effects in our theaters, the presentation of a Persian play by native performers strikes the westerner as little short of ridiculous, the extreme solemnity of all concerned making the appeal to hilarity all the stronger. In one of their favorite miracle plays the prophet is supposed to ascend to heaven, and this dramatic incident is accomplished by the very simple expedient of drawing him up from the stage and out of sight with a block and tackle. The tackle is attached to his belt by an attendant in plain view of the audience. So strong, however, is the imaginative power in the oriental that many of the onlookers will be observed weeping openly."—Harper's Weekly.

The Gardener.

It is at once the joy and the despair of a gardener that his work is never done. His materials are growing, changing, ever varying things. This is an endless delight to a man who lives with his garden and watches his plans grow up. When he makes a garden for another it is a different matter. Then, after spending his best thought and skill, the garden must be turned over into the hands of the Philistine, who may, doubtless will, spoil his color effects, make gaudy what before was rich, introduce tawdry display where before was a sensitive delicacy. These are the things that try men's souls and will continue to try them until the owners of large places acquire some degree of sympathy with and understanding of art.—Century.

The Golden Crested Wren.

The golden crested wren is the smallest not only of British but of all European birds. Its average weight is only about eight grains Troy. The length of the feathers is about three and a half inches and the stretch of the wings about five inches, but when the feathers are taken of the length of the body does not exceed one inch.

A Poor Trade.

"Yes," said the African chieftain pleasantly, "I gave eight mules for my wife, and I must say that I got badly bunkoed."
 "So?"
 "That's what. It was found a case of swamping eight for one."—Louisville Courier Journal.

Nemesis.

Nemesis is lame, but she is of colossal stature, and sometimes, while her sword is not yet unheathed, she stretches out her huge left arm and grasps her victim. The mighty hand is invisible, but the victim totters under the dire clutch. —The New York Times.

Thrust Upon Him.

"How did stupid old Deane come over to a reputation for wit?"
 "He was once interviewed by a brilliant young reporter."—Minneapolis Journal.

WHO WAS ARAPAHOE JOHNNY?

(Original.)

One morning a tall, slender boy apparently about sixteen and in uniform walked into our newspaper office at Leavenworth, Kan., and inserted the following advertisement:

Information Wanted.—Concerning my parents, have faint remembrance of being in a big house on a hill, with extensive view, and a lady who I suppose was my mother; next I remember my life with the Arapahoe Indians; a squaw took care of me; her husband was a white man, though he was seldom with her. At one time when he had been long absent she gave me a locket attached to a gold chain. On one side is the picture of a man, on the other that of a woman, both evidently refined persons. Letters "N. F." on the case. She also gave me some bits of a child's clothing, cautioning me not to tell her husband when he returned. He came back suddenly, and there was great commotion. The soldiers followed very soon after; there was a fight; the Indians were routed; the squaw man was taken and hanged to a tree. The officer in command of the troops, seeing I was a white boy, took me to Fort Leavenworth, where I became a drummer. I must have been taken from my parents twelve years ago, when I was about four years old. Any one who can fit these facts to an occurrence will oblige.

ARAPAHOE JOHNNY.

The boy furnished an order drawn by the colonel commanding at Fort Leavenworth to insert any advertisement he desired, to be charged to the colonel. The boy was so handsome, so manly and so intelligent that I became interested in his case at once. I won his confidence, and he confided to me that he had conceived a boy's love for the little daughter of one of the captains at the fort; hence his desire to learn of his identity. The girl, he told me, was fifteen. I wrote an article about the mystery attending the boy's birth, and it was copied far and wide.

Letters came from all over the country giving all sorts of disappearances and suggestions for clues, but none of them fitted into the circumstances attending the boy's life and memory. Finally one morning a man walked into my office and said that he was the father of the boy who had advertised. I suspected him from the first. He did not resemble the picture of the man in the locket, and he could give no proof whatever of his claim. The boy felt as I did about it, and we advised him to go back to Baltimore, where he said he came from.

Instead of doing so he remained in the town several days and one day came into the office with a gentleman who produced evidence that he represented one of the most respectable law firms in Philadelphia. Arapahoe Johnny met him in our office, and when the attorney looked at the locket he produced other pictures of the man and woman whose likenesses were in the case.

"My boy," he said, "you are Norman Fanning, son of Norman Fanning and Rosalind Bernard, his wife. You come of an old and wealthy family of Philadelphia. There was a 'black sheep' in your father's family—Maurice Fanning, his younger brother—who was disinherited by his father. I have no doubt that, you being the only person except your father, who was in bad health, between Maurice and the estate, he kidnapped you, brought you to the west and put you in charge of his squaw. A man answering his description was hanged when you were taken by the soldiers. He had committed so many crimes that it is a wonder he didn't kill you. This man who claimed to be your father was in some way in league with Maurice Fanning or cognizant of his doings, we don't know which, and, seeing your advertisement, came here to get you under his control. Finding that impossible he wrote me that he had found you and I, as executor of your estate, have agreed to pay him $10,000 for his information, if correct. You are heir to a fine estate left you by your father, provided you shall claim it before you come of age. If you had not appeared by that time it was to go to charity.

"You had better apply for a discharge at once, for it will require some time to get one and I need your presence in Philadelphia. Besides, it is high time you were beginning your education."

I attended dress parade that afternoon at the fort and saw Arapahoe Johnny marching about beating his drum as usual. His case had attracted a good deal of attention from the first and now that it was known that the young drummer was heir to several millions the whole garrison was out to look at him. The colonel had offered to detail him for his orderly till he could be put through the formality of a discharge, but the boy preferred to remain with the band. I was principally interested to discover his sweet-heart, especially as an officer's daughter she had no business to have anything to do with a drummer.

I soon picked out a girl who seemed beside herself with excitement, and as Arapahoe Johnny marched by, while the command stood at rest, I caught the telltale blush on her cheek. She was a little beauty, as lithe as a young willow, and it was easy to see that the only being for her on parade was the boy who beat one of the snare drums.

Young Norman Fanning as soon as discharged went to Philadelphia, where he attended school, and by the time he was eighteen was ready for West Point, an appointment which he secured by the influence of the colonel who had helped him to advertise for his identity. He came into his estate when he was twenty-one and a year later, after being graduated, married his love, who had been won when he was fifteen, and drumsticks at Fort Leavenworth. The only mystery left unsolved is how a captain's daughter and a drummer boy managed to make love. But life is full of those mysteries.

EDMOND COMPTON.

LOSS OF SOIL BY EROSION.

One of the Largest Leaks For Money on the American Farm.

The moving of soil by water is not confined to large streams, as many farmers know to their sorrow. Every tiny rill trickling down the slope carries off some of the finest and richest soil on the farm. After a heavy rain the surface is so soft and the puddles in the hollows are muddy with it. The deep furrows left up and down the slope by the cultivator teeth become miniature water courses, and the trickling water exacts a tribute of rich soil before it joins the large rill by the road. The soil of the cornfield that was left bare all winter has lost some of its best loam by planting time. Gullies appear on the farm here and there, widening and deepening after every rain. The soil on the knolls and hillsides becomes thin and yellow. For the rich black surface part of it has hurried off to help build up some excellent farming land about ten miles downstream.

After a heavy rain the farmer can see the best part of his soil creeping, running, racing away from him. A thousand murky rills slowly meander across his plowed ground and gather forces in the hollows. A hundred turbid rivulets pour down the hollows and join the water in the guleh. A dozen muddy brooklets rush down the gulch, swell the brook into a creek and race downstream, bearing away tons of the rich silt and loam that make plants grow. When the rain is over and the soaked soil has dried out enough to till, there are gravelly places that the farmer finds it hard to make productive, and rocks are exposed that have never been above the surface before.

Unchecked erosion has ruined many farms and seriously hurt many others. Thousands of acres of valuable farming land, particularly the red clay soils of the south and the loose, shaly soils of the north, are gouged and gullied every year until they become practically valueless for cropping. I have seen many hundreds of acres ruined by washing in the Carolinas, Tennessee and Georgia. On most farms, however, the loss is less conspicuous and more insidious. Every farm that has an irregularity of surface, however slight, pays tribute to the force that does more leveling in an hour than all the patent leveling machines have ever done or ever will do.

A very important problem for the farm owner to consider is how to check erosion cheaply and effectively. The plan that will be most successful depends upon the locality, the lay of the land, the kind of soil, the crop and many other local matters. In extreme cases it has been found necessary to retain wooded areas running across the slopes that are subject to washing and otherwise disposed so as to prevent the gathering of water. The water course should be looked to carefully. A little work directing streamlets into legitimate channels is time well spent. There are various methods of holding the soil with plants. A cover crop of rye, clover, vetch, etc., sown in the orchard or cornfield in late summer may do much to prevent surface washing during the winter. Steep banks may be held with quack grass; slopes may be put into meadows. Cultivating across the slopes instead of up and down will save many tiny leaks that amount to a serious loss in some cases. Many other methods of checking erosion will suggest themselves to the man who has this problem to solve, and the methods born of personal need and local experience are apt to be most effective.

The loss by erosion is, I believe, one of the largest leaks on American farms today. It is bound to increase as our wooded area decreases. This loss cannot be entirely prevented, as long as the rain falls upon land that is not perfectly level. But a large part of it can be prevented. How to do this is worth considering by every man who has the problem on his hands.—Country Life in America.

The Young Writers in Fiction.

In fiction the young writer, with a spontaneous imaginative creation, whose taste relishes the concrete world of nature and humanity about him—all the beauty, mirth and pathos of it—more than the images of the world conveyed through literary tokens, has from the first an advantage, in that he makes upon his readers' minds a wholly native impression. He makes himself known directly by showing us the lineaments of his spiritual face, the charm of feature, mood and temper which makes an impression at our first reading like that of first seen faces in our real human contacts. Such writers are vital personalities in our literature. They do not need to wait. They may come to us as children come, as soon as they can speak, having only to break with infancy in their books their grow up before us, giving us plain notice of their adolescence and maturity.—H. M. Allen in Harper's.

Child Love.

Welcome to the parents the puny struggler, strong in his weakness, his little arms more irresistible than the soldier's, his lips touched with persuasion which Chastity and Pericles in mask had not. His unaffected lamentations when he lifts up his wife on high, or more beautiful, the sobbing child, the face all liquid grief, as he tries to swallow his vexation, soften all hearts to pity and to mirthful and clamorous compassion.—Emerson.

Merely a Precaution.

"Now, Lester," said the old codger, addressing his callow nephew in an admonitory tone, "it is as proper that you should pay the fiddler as it is to liquidate any other debt, but it's a fine exhibition of entry with betwixt the eyes to inquire the fiddler's price before the dance begins."—Pack.

MANY CHARGES OF CRUELTY TO ANIMALS HEARD.

Robbers in East Berlin—Recent Pen-sions—Dog Attacks Girl—A Run Away.

Justice Straley of New Oxford seems to have a corner on prosecution's charging cruelty to animals. The prosecutor in nearly all the cases has been Dr. R. J. After hearing Reiley was discharged. Rider and Myers each got a fine of $10 and costs. Edward Unger of Hanover after hearing, was fined $10 and costs. Roy Kline and Edward Weisensale settled similar charges by paying $10 and costs. The charge against Maurice Flemming was withdrawn. John Knight of Hanover has been arrested on a like charge. S. L. Johns of McSherrystown has been charged with cruelty to animals and entered bail for his appearance in court. STORY OF THE FLOOD

THERE ARE MANY AND VARIED VER-SIONS OF THE DELUGE.

The Great Event Is Chronicled Not Only in the Talmud and Koran, but in the Legends of Almost Every Race That Ever Lived on Earth.

One of the most powerful and vivid descriptive portions of the book of Genesis is that devoted to the wonder-ful story of the deluge. Together with the accounts of Adam's fall, the slay-ing of Abel and the turning of Lot's wife into a pillar of salt, every one remembers from childhood how Noah was warned of the doom impending over the children of men and how he constructed a huge ark in which he did live, himself and his family and two of every beast of the field and fowl of the air, for the space of 100 days, or until the waters subsided and the dry land appeared. But the Biblical recital of this terrible visitation of divine wrath is by no means the only one. In fact, the most skeptically inclined must believe that something of the sort actually occurred long ago, for it has been perpetuated not only in the Tal-mud and Koran, but in the legends of almost every nation and race that ever lived on the face of the earth, including the Chinese, the ancient Aztecs of Mexico, the Indian tribes of North and South America and even the savages of Africa.

The story, of course, varies material-ly in the multitudinous traditions, but the gist of it remains substantially the same—namely, that the earth was once visited by a great flood in which nearly every living thing was overwhelmed and lost. Thus in the Koran we read that Noah constructed the ark with divine assistance and was railed at for his pains by the wicked. When the time prescribed for the punishment of mankind arrived, water was seen to flow from the burning oven of Noah's wife, and immediately all the veins and arteries of the earth broke and spouted out water.

Noah was then admonished in these words: "Take and bring into the ark two couples of every kind of animal, male and female, with all your family, except him who has been condemned by your mouth, and receive the faith-ful and even the unbelieving, but few only will enter." The Koran also says that the ark was built in two years and that it contained three stories, the upper one for the birds, the middle one for the men and the provisions and the hold for the beasts. Canaan, the son of Ham, refused to be saved. There-fore Noah cursed him, and his posterity became black and were enslaved. The Persians assert that Ham incurred his father's malediction as well. When six months had passed the ark rested on the top of Mount Djondj (Ararat), after having made the circuit of the world. Tabari says that two sorts of animals left the ark which had not en-tered it—the pig and the cat. Concern-ing the latter we have this interesting piece of information: When the rats be-gan to make trouble the voyagers com-plained to Noah. Whereupon the patri-arch "passed his hand down the back of the lion, who sneezed, and the cat leaped out of its nose. And the cat ate the rats."

According to the Talmud, Noah and his family and one pair of each kind of beast were to be saved in the ark, but of every clean beast seven were to en-ter in. The rhinoceros, however, had to be left out, for the simple but suf-ficient reason that its neck alone was three miles long. Nevertheless all the rabbinic writers agree that the rho-noceros survived the flood; hence it is reasonable to suppose that the huge beast was taken in tow by a rope at-tached to its horn. Some authorities likewise declare that Noah extended his hospitality to another outsider in the shape of Og, the giant, who climbed on the roof of the ark and received his daily food through a hole bored in the side of the vessel.

Ararat has been known under this name for 3000 years, and an Armenian writer declares that an entire country was so called after Arat the Fair, an ancient Armenian king, who lived about 1750 B. C. He fell in a bloody battle with the Babylonians, and the scene of his death was therefor known as Arat-Arat, or the Fall of Arat. Josephus refers to the mountain as Nazzarum and declares that the re-mains of the ark were there to be seen carefully preserved.

Almost all the Asiatic traditions closely resemble the Biblical account. Berossus in his Chaldean history (B. C. 290) speaks of ten kings, who appear to correspond to the ten patriarchs in Genesis before the flood. The last of these kings was called Xisuthrus. Berossus relates that "Kronos appeared to Xisuthrus in a dream and warned him that all men would be destroyed by a deluge on the 15th of the month Pa-sios and commanded him to write down all the learning and science of men and to hide it in the sun city Siparis and then to build a ship and enter it along with his family and relatives and nearest friends and to take into it with him food and drink and beasts and winged fowl. When he was asked whether he was about to sail, he was bidden to reply, 'To the gods to pray them that men may prosper.'" Xisuthrus did as he was commanded, and when the flood showed signs of abating he sent out three birds in suc-cession. The first and second came back, the latter with mud on its feet, but the third returned not. Soon after this the ship was stranded on a moun-tain, and Xisuthrus disembarked with his family, offered thanks to the gods and vanished. Subsequently the re-maining survivors heard his voice in the heavens, bidding them fear God and to take his writings out of Siparis and from them instruct men.
